Unit 6 Newbridge Industrial Estate, Pitt Street, Keighley BD21 4PQ

This is another year of celebration... this year marks 100 years of Flying Scotsman, and we are the Yorkshire home for the legendary locomotive during May. We look forward to a month allowing passengers to ride behind the very special loco and enjoy a programme of events to celebrate the centenary. Full details are being published on the website, where you can book tickets to the Flying Scotsman Festival event.

Whilst we are busily preparing for the Flying Scotsman's visit, plenty is going on. From March 9th to 12th, we are holding our Steam Gala Extravaganza, which for the first time, runs over four days, giving lots of opportunities to ride behind the home fleet as well as visiting locomotives. We will be celebrating the 'London Midland & Scottish' railway heritage of the line, with three visitors representing the railway company that ran the line from 1923 until 1948. After that, ownership passed to British Railways until operations ceased in 1962, and then to the Preservation Society that reopened the line in 1968, and we have been running trains ever since.

Hosting these events takes a significant amount of planning and effort by our small team of staff and 700+ volunteers. We must maintain the fleet of steam locomotives, carriages and wagons that you can see much of during the Steam Gala. As well as the gala and special events, we continue to run every weekend throughout the year and during the week and the holidays. We have a whole programme of events across the year and have just released dates of our popular Yorkshire Afternoon Tea and Haworth Haddock, vintage and diesel trains running dates.

Maintaining the track and structures on a 150+ year-old railway is no mean feat and requires our willing volunteers to turn out in all weathers to undertake the necessary work to keep the wheels turning.

I hope you will join us on board soon and will also consider joining our volunteers to help us keep our very special piece of heritage alive.

Who are we?

Our Keighley Denture Expert is Joseph O'Reilly (Dip CDT RCS)

Joseph qualified from Leeds Dental Institute as a dental technician and continued to do work for some of the UK's best surgeons. Through his constant passion for his work, he then enrolled for the prestigious Clinical Dental course at the School of Dentistry University of Central Lancashire in Preston. During this time, despite his tender years, his determination and focus pushed him to be recognised as one of the youngest qualified clinical technicians in the UK being awarded a Diploma from the Royal College of Surgeons Edinburgh. Joseph has a passion for the industry, his eye for detail and careful planning ensures only the best results, giving his patients peace of mind and great clinical results. He has now been creating smiles for over 18 years He is currently working closely with Taylored Dental Care in Keighley. Assessing patients who have had problems with their dentures and providing them with options to correct these.

How can we help you?

Technology has moved on massively over the last few years as far as dentures are concerned. The fact is, you don't have to suffer badly designed or ill fitting dentures anymore.

However, replacing your teeth is more than trusting someone with your smile. Your appearance and the way people perceive you is also at stake,

Joseph creates dentures which can offer the dual effect of restoring your smile and correcting the proportions of your face. He can add volume to your lower face and upper lip region to achieve a more natural, youthful look. Everyone is different, so your dentures are influenced by your age, personality and gender to ensure they look perfectly natural. Joseph will discuss your individual needs and the best choices available before providing you with the information you require to determine what is right for you.

The smallest alteration can make the biggest change and Joe is committed to providing the highest level of care, quality materials and the latest digital technology to achieve the best results for you.

Joseph's ambition is also his craft, creating lifelike smiles through dentures and implant supported prosthesis.

Meniscal injuries of the knee - diagnosis and management

The knee is the largest and most complex joint and is often the source of pain and poor function.

It is a hinge joint and allows us to sit, squat, walk or jump. There is also a small degree of inward and outward rotation that is possible at the knee joint. If you sit with your knee bent at 90 degrees and hold it off the ground, you will detect some rotation of your lower leg (tibia) as you move a stationary foot from left to right.

The knee joint consists of 3 bones:

- femur - the upper leg bone, or thigh bone
- tibia - the bone at the front of the lower leg, or shin bone
- patella - the thick, triangular bone that sits over the other bones at the front of the knee, or kneecap.

The end of the bones are covered with a layer of cartilage - a slick, elastic material that absorbs shock and allows the bones to glide easily against one another as they move.

At the end of the femur are two round condyles and these sit on top of the tibia which is a relatively flat surface. Imagine an egg on top of a plate - this isn't what can be described as a stable connection. However, if you place the egg in an egg cup, all of a sudden you have a stable connection. On top of the tibia are 2 semi-circular shaped discs of tough fibrocartilage that do exactly this job. They are the medial meniscus and the lateral meniscus (plural menisci). They deepen the articular surface of the tibia, thus increasing (along with several ligaments) the stability of the joint. They also act as shock absorbers by increasing the surface area to further dissipate the forces of movement.

Acute meniscal tears usually happen when you have a forceful twist to your knee. This can be done whilst playing sport, but can also be done by a slip or fall when the force of your full bodyweight goes through the joint as it bends and twists. A degenerative meniscal tear can occur at any age, but is more common in older populations due to wear and tear of the joint. Ageing tends to make the menisci less flexible thus making them more prone to developing a tear.

Symptoms of a meniscus tear include:

- knee pain or tenderness
- stiffness or swelling around your knee - the swelling may not start for a few hours or days
- difficulty bending, straightening or moving your knee - kneeling down or a deep squat will feel very uncomfortable to do
- your knee giving way when you try to stand
- locking of the joint
- a clunking or clicking feeling when you move your knee

The management and recovery from a meniscal injury tends to depend on what part of the meniscus is damaged. The meniscus has 3 distinctive zones: the red zone which is located to the outer third of the meniscus, the red-white zone which is in the middle of the meniscus, and the white zone found on the inner third of the meniscus. The red zones receive some blood supply and can repair well. The red-white zone have a very poor blood supply and a harder to heal. The white zone is completely avascular (no blood supply) and presents a poor prognosis for recovery, regeneration and healing. Therefore, a full-thickness tear, which goes through all 3 zones in the meniscus, will require surgery for the best possible outcome.

If you suspect you have a meniscal injury, follow the PRICE protocol, seek some medical advice from your physiotherapist or GP and be prepared for a slow recovery back to being pain-free and fully functional. Gentle strengthening exercises to regain quadricep strength is vitally important and should be commenced as soon as possible. Do not rush your recovery time as you may well make the problem even worse! ~ David Hanson

BEHIND THE SCENES AT THE MUSEUM

It's International Women's Day on Wednesday 8 March and so we thought we'd share this quote from 'Jane Eyre' with you.

"Women are supposed to be very calm generally; but women feel just as men feel; they need exercise for their faculties, and a field for their efforts, as much as their brothers do; they suffer from too rigid a restraint, to absolute a stagnation, precisely as men would suffer; and it is narrow-minded in their more privileged fellow-creatures to say that they ought to confine themselves to making puddings and knitting stockings, to playing on the piano and embroidering bags. It is thoughtless to condemn them, or laugh at them, if they seek to do more or learn more than custom has pronounced necessary for their sex."

Nicky Peacock, Writer in Residence, Brontë Parsonage Museum

Of course, there is nothing wrong with making puddings and knitting stockings, but this quote reveals the intensity of Jane's yearning for freedom and equality, things which millions of women across the world are still denied today. It is also a startling reminder of the contemporary relevance of Charlotte Brontë's writing and explains why 'Jane Eyre' is often described as a feminist novel. We're sure Charlotte would be gratified to know that today, the Brontë Parsonage Museum and Haworth are full of strong, independent women and that many visitors to the Parsonage cite Jane Eyre as an early inspiration for their own sense of independence. We think it's really important to celebrate International Women's Day and have organised a number of events to mark the occasion.

On Wednesday 8 March, we're partnering with Elizabeth Gaskell's House and Jane Austen's House to present an event with Bafta-awarding winning screenwriter, Sandy Welch, who is responsible for top tv adaptations including 'North and South', 'Jane Eyre' and 'Emma'. Join us on Zoom at 7pm for a revealing look at these 19th century classics and their re-invention for the small and big screens.

Tickets are available now from our website.

On Saturday 11 March, 11am – 2pm, we're holding our first Big Brontë Book Swap! We're inviting local residents and visitors alike to bring a book they've enjoyed along to our event space in the Old School Room and swap it for one they haven't read. Everyone is welcome and there'll be friendly chat and free refreshments. Following on from the book swap, Nicky Peacock will be reflecting on her year as Brontë Parsonage Museum Writer in Residence. This will be a relaxed and informal event with Nicky chatting, sharing stories and answering your questions. Both these events are free, but please head to our website for more information and to reserve your seat – even strong and independent women need to sit down sometimes! ~ Rebecca Yorke

Dahl for supper

by Martin Lingard

Green lentils with spinach & ginger

When I first left home (a long time ago) I cooked and ate a lot of vegetarian and vegan food, not for any particular ethical reason but because it was cheap and I was on a budget; it meant I had more beer money! The recipe below became a regular part of my repertoire. I still cook it today. We thought it would be good to share this recipe in the current economic climate, served with plain boiled rice or bread, it will feed a family of six for £10. The lentils and spices will keep and can be used for other meals. Or if you are cooking for one you can freeze the left overs.

Ingredients (Serves 6)

- 250g green lentils (£2 / kg)
- Fresh ginger root about the length of your thumb (£1 - £2 for a good sized root)
- 6 cloves of garlic, peeled (£1 for 4 bulbs)
- 1 tsp whole cumin seeds (£2 bag)
- Vegetable oil (under £2 / litre)
- 500g frozen leaf spinach (1.80 / kg)
- 1 medium onion, chopped ((£1/kg)
- Salt & Freshly ground black pepper
- 1 lemon, juiced (£1.50 for 4)
- ½ teaspoon of chilli powder (£0.75/100g)

Method

Rinse the lentils under plenty of cold running water then drain, put into a roomy pot and cover with roughly a litre of water. Add two slices of unpeeled ginger and two peeled cloves of garlic to your pot, put on a direct heat and bring to the boil, skimming any scum from the surface. Reduce the heat and simmer your lentils gently for approximately an hour or so until tender. Fish out the slices of ginger and set the pot to one side. Meanwhile, bring another pot of water to the boil, add the frozen spinach, bring back to the boil, simmer for a minute or two, drain and set aside. Now finely chop your remaining cloves of garlic, peel and grate the remaining fresh ginger. Heat the oil in a large pot, adding the cumin seeds when hot, they should start to sizzle, add the chopped garlic and stir until they start to turn golden, then add the onion. Once the onion is starting to brown add the spinach and fresh ginger, stir fry for a minute before tipping in your cooked lentils. Add salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste, the juice from your lemon and the chilli powder. Give it a good stir, bring to a very gentle simmer, and cook gently for a further 15-20 minutes. If you think it's too thick, add a little more water, if you think it's too watery, remove the lid and turn the heat up for 5 minutes, stirring more frequently.

Our business relies on referrals and we get a huge amount of our calls from people who have been referred to us by our existing customers - that simply wouldn't happen if we didn't adhere to our overniding principles.

At the end of the day the old adage that happy customers lead to more happy customers is true and we work hard to make that happen for every installation we carry out!

So, if you want to make use of your loft space, however big or small, call Warren on 0800 612 8359 and he'll be happy to pop round and give you a no obligation quote so you too can make use of your loft.
