With all the sunshine we've been enjoying of late I keep thinking of that silly song about the sun... "The sun has got his hat on Hip-hip-hip-hooray! The sun has got his hat on, He's coming out today..." I do realise though that you may very well be reading this when the rain is pouring down and the sky is cloudy...so it might be more appropriate to hum this old favourite instead... "I'm singing in the rain, Just singing in the rain, What a glorious feelin', I'm happy again"... Either way, a positive frame of mind is the desired outcome whatever the weather brings this summer. (And singing helps)

We continue with our eco-conscious content and encourage you to consider the various ways to save resources and conserve energy. Whether it is taking up cycling to work, installing PV panels on your home, or simply switching off the lights when you leave a room, every little bit counts. Fair Intents, the local Eco-festival is scheduled September 10 & 11 this year...save the date and get involved in creating a more sustainable future. (More details to follow but see page 10 and check out the website). The Fall Fest on Page 5 looks really interesting too!

Relish the summer while it is with us...you will find there is something for everyone in the list of events.

We have already tried the elderflower cordial recipe on page 12; it really is so easy to make... and it tastes like summer in a glass!

Last but not least...don't miss the special offers in this edition...you will find a voucher to claim 2 Curries for the price of 1 (page 5) 3 FREE Sessions for personal Coaching (page 28), and a saving of £200 if you place an order for solar panels with Electrotec by the end of Aug.(page 9).

Have a great summer and remember to keep singing ; - )

Sky Ride, In search of the perfect hill

Local people are being invited to choose their perfect hill to cycle down by Sky Ride and Bradford Council.

The Sky Ride event itself on Sunday, July 31, incorporates a perfect hill down into Bradford city centre from Peel Park offering families the chance to freewheel for over a mile down Bolton Road to Little Germany before enjoying some entertainment at the Urban Garden.

But as part of a national contest the organisers are also asking people to pick their own perfect hill - of which there are many around the district to choose from. One of the most famous hills is of course the one that climbs from Ilkley up towards the Cow and Calf rocks which has seen the spectacular sight of the Tour of Britain cyclists in a peloton several times in recent years.

Olympic Gold medallist Sir Chris Hoy

People can go on to the www.goskyride.com website to nominate their perfect hill.

"It is the hills that lend such beauty and magnificence to the landscape in the Bradford district. Few people around the country realise that our district is three-quarters rural and there is much to enjoy."

The search for the perfect hill is backed by Olympic Gold medallist Sir Chris Hoy, an ambassador for the Sky Ride events nationally. Sky Ride asks that nominations take into consideration the view and the historical resonance, but most importantly what that hill means to that person whether it is the thrill of the descent or the memories it invokes.

A public vote and a panel including Sir Chris himself and Editor of the Lonely Planet Cycling guide, Etain O'Carroll, will shortlist the entries. The ten best runners-up will receive a bike for themselves and the winner will not only receive their own brand new bike, but also one for their immediate family up to a maximum of four.

Sky Ride local events, which are free small, weekly community bike rides led by trained leaders, can be both registered and found on www.goskyride.com website.

If you are a member of facebook you can also click on to www.facebook.com/goskyride

A Closer Look at... CLOUDFREE IT

...the way IT's meant to be!

We're celebrating! We've delivered great computer service and support to homes and businesses throughout the Aire and Worth Valleys (and further afield) for over 3 years and we're still growing!

Computer Service Centre - Fixed Prices and No 'Technobabble' - Promise!

Our experienced, Microsoft-certified technicians have the answers for you in plain English and our services are at fixed prices too!

- Free diagnosis (up to 15 mins technician time)
- We discuss with you what's needed & fix costs
- You decide if you want us to proceed

Home Support Visits and one-to-one Computer Training

- PC or printer behaving badly?
  - Wireless network acting up?
  - Need internet access for the first time?
- Whatever your computer support needs, we'll come out at a time to suit you.

Don't struggle on if you're finding the world of computers daunting, or you've simply got stuck. Our friendly and patient staff will happily spend time showing you 'the ropes' at the same low rate as for home support visits. You get all the help you need without waiting for a teacher to finish helping others.

PC, Laptop and Accessory Sales

Guidance in choosing the right product for your needs is available from our approachable experts. Whatever you're looking for, do come in and have a chat with us; we're more than happy to advise.

We supply products from a wide range of popular vendors and keep stock of popular parts and peripherals. We'll order in non-stock products for you, often on next day delivery.

Our favourite PC and laptop brand is Dell. Their wide range represents quality & great value for money, no matter what your budget. We sell at exactly the same prices as per Dell's own website, plus a small charge of £40 to test and set everything up properly (and transfer your existing data to your new computer if you need us to) before you come in to collect it. This means fewer, or no niggles when you plug in at home.

By talking with us first you'll be a much happier computer user!

There's so more to CloudfreeIT than just 'Computer Repairs', so whatever your IT needs we can help.

Remember - we don't do 'hard sell', so you've got nothing to lose! And even if you just need a little free advice, our door is always open...

Going green: The positives about solar panels

- Solar panels, when in operation, are carbon neutral. The only pollution produced as a result of solar panels is from the manufacturing process, transportation, and installation.
- The production of energy from the use of fossil and some renewable fuels (e.g. wind turbines) can be noisy, yet solar energy produces electricity very quietly.
- One of the great pros of solar energy is the ability to harness electricity in remote locations that are not linked to a national grid. A prime example of this is in space, where satellites are powered by high efficiency solar cells.
- The installation of solar panels in remote locations is usually much more cost effective than laying the required high voltage wires.

- Solar energy can be very efficient in a large area of the globe, and new technologies allow for a more efficient energy production on overcast/dull days.
- Solar panels can be installed on top of many rooftops, which eliminates the problem of finding the required space for solar panel placement.
- Another great positive for solar energy is the cost. Although the initial investment of solar panels may be high, once installed, they provide a free source of electricity, which will pay for itself over the years.
- The use of solar energy to produce electricity allows the user to become less dependent on the worlds fossil fuel supplies...and that is a real positive outcome.

electroprotect.co.uk

We have countless local satisfied customers, but don't just take our word for it...

"Since the start of this year we have generated 650 Kwh of energy, (even without the feed in tariff) has reduced our electricity bill from £48 per month to £15 per month! During the daytime even on dull days, we get a couple of hundred Watts (from a 1.1 kw system) and of course on sunny days we act as a generator, exporting 500 - 600 watts back to the grid after our own domestic use has been taken care of. The panels have worked flawlessly and i would have no hesitating in recommending Electroprotect to others."

Sustainable Living NOW

Ecology Building Society HQ
Silsden, West Yorkshire

For ideas and advice to improve your home's energy efficiency, visit www.energysavingtrust.org.uk/Home-improvements-and-products

Insulation: not something many people get excited about, but it has a major role to play in building a greener society in the UK.

There are over 26 million homes in Britain, most of which waste huge amounts of energy and money. Our homes currently consume three times as much energy as our cars, and account for over 27% of our carbon emissions.

Should we care about this? The government cares enough to want to reduce our carbon emissions by 80% by 2050, and this won't happen without us all doing our bit. This doesn't mean disposing of all our worldly goods and giving up everything we enjoy – it means ensuring that the way we live today doesn't jeopardise the lives of future generations. Living sustainably involves some work on our part, but it has big rewards.

In terms of our homes, it means doing what we can to improve the energy efficiency of every house in the UK, from draughty Victorian terraces to modern high-rise flats. The good news is that the support and the know-how are out there, from sheep's wool insulation and cork tiles through to triple glazing and heat exchangers.

The even better news is that improving the energy efficiency of your home won't just give you a warm glow. Low energy homes are cheaper to run – in the long term the savings on energy will far outstrip the cost of improving your home – and they're generally more comfortable to live in.

Ecology Building Society has been supporting properties and projects which respect the environment for 30 years, starting from our tiny office in Crosshills and now from our Eco HQ in Silsden. We're highly regarded for our support for eco new builds and renovations, but we also want to do our bit to help the UK improve its existing housing stock.

For more information about Ecology Building Society, visit www.ecology.co.uk or call 0845 674 5566 and say you read about EBS in the Aire Valley Mag.

Eco-efficiencies can be made on most properties

The simple taste of summer... ELDERFLOWER

You can't have failed to notice that there is a glorious abundance of elderflower in gardens, hedgerows and roadsides this year. I have a great recipe to take advantage of this amazing bounty!

Elderflower cordial is a traditional English drink, and fairly expensive to buy ready made, but incredibly cheap to make at home. It's delicious mixed with water (5 parts water to 1 part cordial), drizzled over ice-cream, or mixed with gin or champagne (or both). This recipe is extremely easy, but does require a few odd bits of equipment... a clean pillowcase or thin cotton teatowel, a funnel or jug, a very large saucepan and some rubber or latex gloves and two glass bottles with tops.

You will need:

About 30 flower heads, without bugs or leaves or big stalks (a salad spinner is good for de-bugging)

3 pints / 1.5 l boiling water

2 lb/1kg sugar

4 lemons

2 oz / 50g citric acid (buy it from a chemists, health food or home-brew shop)

Over medium heat, pour the boiling water from the kettle in to the large saucepan. Add the sugar; stir until dissolved. Grate the skin (zest) of two of the lemons, and chop the zested lemons and the others into chunks or slices and pop them in to the water when it is still hot but not boiling.

Take the pan off the heat.

Push the elderflowers, head down into the water, then cover the saucepan with your pillowcase and leave to steep for 24 hours.

The next day, sterilise your bottles by rinsing them with boiling water and letting them dry off naturally (or use the dishwasher). Then don the rubber gloves, and rinse your pillowcase in boiling water too and wring out. Use this as a sieve to strain your cordial - (obvious hints - take out as many of the flowers and lemons as you can before pouring it onto the cotton, and pour a little bit at a time).

Then all you have to do is use your jug or funnel to decant it into your bottles and enjoy. It will last up to a month in the fridge, or you can freeze it in plastic bottles for up to a year.

Nel Hargrave

CAN YOU WRITE IN THE PROPER SOUND FOR EACH ANIMAL.
THEN FIND THE 8 ANIMAL SOUNDS IN THE GRID.

CAN YOU SOLVE THIS RIDDLE?

Each line of this verse is a clue to a letter, which will spell a five letter word

My first is in taste, but not in eat.
My second is in shoe, but not in feet.
My third is in park, but not in keeper.
My fourth is in broom, and also in sweeper.
My last is in lock, and also in key.
My whole is something you find in the sea.

Storming Success for Keighley & Craven Ladies

Keighley & Craven Athletics Club

ladies team romped to success taking the top women's prize in the Bradford Millennium Relay race on Sunday 12th June 2011.

The girls triumphed for the fifth year holding the first position through the majority of the gruelling 50 mile relay race which starts in Bingley and finishes in Ilkley.

The team, made up of ten runners taking on five legs in pairs, completing the course in 7hrs 7 mins and 31 seconds – 5 mins faster than neighbouring rivals Wharfedale.

Ladies team captains, Tizz Woffenden & Janet-Alison Arkwright said: "We are so proud of our girls for doing brilliantly yet again."

"It's not an easy course and although the day started off well the weather soon deteriorated creating difficult conditions to run in."

"But each and every team member put everything they had into the race and they deserved every success."

The club managed to field seven teams for the event, a total of seventy runners, more than any other club in the competition.

The men's teams came 9th, 10th and 28th with three remaining ladies teams coming 42nd, 50th and 51st. Club members_

LEG 1: Nigel Bedell/Shawn Wilkinson

"WEST YORKSHIRE OUTDOORS"

by Ben Waters, Steeton

White fluffy blots dotted on green
Graze under greys blotted with white fluffy blobs.
Blue shows through.
Yellow sun shafts light up the rocky hill,
Valley shaded till hill light's faded
N' clouds collude to allow light through.
Rocks drop n' roll, crumble in slow motion
Taking several years to tumble,
But one day on your routine ramble
There's a new displacement or formation.
While becks n' rivers flood or trickle,
Carving contours with destructive creation.
Get high for the country.
Get down for the towns,
Dissected by canals n' ginnels.
Streets of grass crossed by washing string,
As terraces hump up the slopes back to back.
Old mills black chimney stack.
Stone walls squaring up to the moors;
Breathe in deep feeling this West Yorkshire outdoors.

Saving the world, one chocolate bar at a time!

by Kelly Cheung

Life as a teenager is good. If we're not thinking about what labels we're sporting then it's how good Orlando Bloom is looking [very good, just in case you were wondering], but should we start to think about the future? No, I don't mean what car you'll drive and how big your house is going to be but whether or not we will need to start making sacrifices in order to be able to live on this planet.

Unless you have been living in a cave or hidden in your room playing COD (a highly popular shooting game, to those of you who are confused!), you will know how fast we are running out of fossil fuels and how many people are trying to promote the idea of sustainability and helping to save our planet so generations after us can enjoy what it has to offer. It's up to our generation to clean up the mess of our parents and start being eco friendly to improve our Earth or we'll lose the privilege of living here. No pressure or anything.

It's not all just about using less fossil fuels but also to start buying fairly traded products. Fairly traded products pay fair wages to the workers meaning that they don't get ripped off for all their hard work. Whether you know it or not, you most likely already help towards supporting Fairtrade as Cadbury's dairy milk chocolate is Fairtrade certified since Autumn 2009. Brilliant! No more guilty thoughts while you tuck into a few then...

We teenagers are fashion conscious. We pester mum and dad for more money to buy us that Jack Wills hoodie 'cause everyone has one and let's not even talk about stepping into Next 'cause come on mum, Next is so not cool when you're older than the age of five! Basically, we're shallow when it comes to clothes and how we look but there is a way to make us more aware of the clothes on our back.

Think back to when the whole issue of using plastic bags came about. A-list bag designer, Anya Hindmarch, designed a bag called 'I'm not a plastic bag' to raise awareness of the consequences of using plastic bags. It was £5 at Sainsbury's stores and sold out within an hour of its release. So, we won't go near the shops our parents shop at but will queue for hours to get a £5 bag from Sainsbury's? Oh the power of celebrities! Imagine what would happen if Cheryl Cole decided that it was important to shop Fairtrade! We only really care about fairly traded products when it's associated with the elite and that is our only link to sustainability and helping to achieve a fairer world.

It would seem, in conclusion, that we don't really pay too much attention to the world around us but I believe that it's important. It's up to our generation to set an example to future generations of a cleaner, more sustainable way of living.

I know that we have a lot on our minds already, never mind having to carry the burden of saving the planet on our shoulders! However, we can take baby steps such as choosing to walk instead of driving, saving water, you know, the simple stuff 'cause that all helps in the long run. We have so much going on with exams and university to do too much but even the smallest of changes can help towards a better earth. So, although saving the planet isn't our top priority, we should be conscious of it because it will be our responsibility in the future.

Local resident, Jane Gerwitz, is an illustrator and artist who has been selected to exhibit her work in Bradford Chamber of Commerce. Included in her exhibition there is the highly detailed, large, panoramic pen drawing - her personal view of 'Bradford before the Hole'. Other subjects in the show include demolition, buildings, contraptions, myth, recycling, nursery rhymes, people, animals and her 'bird' characters - both in stories and greeting cards. Jane uses a range of media including print, pencil crayon, ink, oil and watercolour.

The exhibition is part of Bradford Chamber's new arts initiative, raising the profile of local artists. It is a rolling programme of artists and photographers showing both in the Chamber in Little Germany, and at the Bradford Chamber Business Park in Laisterdyke. The venues are a very welcome addition to existing exhibition space in the Bradford area. At present Jane's work is in Bradford Chamber, Little Germany and the last day will be the 5th July. The exhibition then moves to the Bradford Chamber Business Park and is open from the
